Dear Judges:

School has been a set of mixed emotions, there has been years that I have hated and dreaded school and there were years that I loved school, in a way. I did not like falling behind in school, especially if that year was hard for me. Freshman year for example was hard for me, I think it was hard because of the transition from middle school to high school. Then the next year, sophomore year, was easy I had good grades, all A's and B's and one C which was sign language class. Sign language class was hard, it was new to me, I never really knew about it. Mrs. Weaver though made the class awesome, she made it fun, the class was hard but I loved the teacher. Junior year was kinda hard I have figured out high school though so I had A's and B's with a C again. This year I want it to be easy I only have three classes and I want to make this year the best year.

From what I have heard from my family and friends I am a friendly kid, I try to help other people. I want to be respectful to others and not be rude to people like how most kids these days are rude and do not care for other people. I try to be active, I used to be a big kid, and not the good kind of big, I realised that is not the life I wanted, so I started going to the gym, then I started riding dirt bikes for a bit then I joined football. Without football I would be a couch potato, It's got me in shape and strong, and without football I would not have had as many friends as I do now. After football and high school I am going to be a firefighter which allows me to stay active and help people.

I plan on going to WNC to get my basic EMT which is a step closer for my dream job of becoming a firefighter. After doing that, I will go to TMCC for the firefighter academy and get through that. It is a long road ahead of me, but after all that it will be worth it. I will try to go to any fire station but whatever is close to home, or gives me the best opportunity. Thank you Judges for viewing my senior project.

Sincerely,
Chandler Tiearney
